

GOVERNMENT IS WITHOUT CASE

United States Commissioner Bloodgood Of Milwaukee, Dismisses The Action.

OTHER CHARGES WILL BE DROPPED

Suits Brought Out Of The Colorado Land Deals In Which Wisconsin Men Were Implicated. Is Ended.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 5.—By the action of United States Commissioner Bloodgood in dismissing the action brought by the Government against I. J. Rosenberg, indicted by a federal grand jury in Colorado on the charge of conspiracy, several other cases against prominent Milwaukee men will be dropped by the Government.

Land Frauds

The indictments were all found in connection with the land frauds in Colorado, which were recently exposed and Mr. Rosenberg's specific case was that of conspiracy with intent to defraud the government in connection with the Federal Coal & Iron Company.

Failed to Show

Commissioner Bloodgood held that the Government had failed to show Rosenberg's connection with any attempt to defraud the government and that there was no cause for action against him. As this case was the test one brought by the government to sustain their indictments it is probable that all pending suits will be dropped.

Many Indicted

Many prominent Milwaukee men were indicted by the grand jury and all accepted service of the papers in the case. The hearings were held in Milwaukee owing to it being the legal residence of the parties concerned.

BAY STATE POLITICAL CALDRON WILL BOIL

Senator Lodge to Lead Republican Fight While Henry M. Whitney Will Lead the Democrats.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—The fierce political battle Massachusetts has witnessed in a score of years begins today with the holding of the state nominating conventions by the two leading parties. While the republicans are holding their convention in Boston the democrats meet at Springfield. Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., and Lieutenant Governor E. S. Draper will be renominated by the republicans. Henry M. Whitney will be the democratic standard bearer and his running-mate in all probability will be George A. Schofield of Ipswich, well known as the persistent advocate of the veterans' bounty bill.

The campaign is bound to attract national attention. The administration itself is concerned deeply over the outcome of the off-year election in Massachusetts for two reasons—out that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the closest friend of President Roosevelt in congress, is confronted with a desperate fight as leader of the state organization, and the other that Henry M. Whitney, the democratic nominee, is known as the original member of the "Annapolis club."

Henry M. Whitney is going to make his campaign on a tariff reform platform. He is a brother of the late William C. Whitney of New York, a man of large financial interests, who has long taken a prominent part in the politics in the state, but, until a few years ago, not in a manner to give him great national prominence. Thomas W. Lawson helped to bring him into prominence by making him one of the characters in "Frenzied Finance." Mr. Whitney's hobby in politics has been tariff reform, and on that issue he came near being chosen lieutenant governor two years ago.

A year or so ago he went to Washington and called on President Roosevelt to voice the demand of Massachusetts tariff revisionists for certain lines of action. Afterward he gave out some statements relative to things he said the President had told him he favored, and a foreboding doubt from President Roosevelt followed. That started the famous "Annapolis club" and likewise stirred up much of the trouble about tariff revision of which Massachusetts has been the center.

Senator Lodge is fighting with all his power to force the tariff and all national issues to the rear, on the ground that they have no place in a purely state campaign. The republican contention, voiced by Mr. Lodge, is that there is plenty to talk about in what pertains to the conduct of the state government and that the tariff issue has been raised to before the situation.

It is expected that the national administration will lead the influence in every way it can to defeat the election of Whitney because of the personal animosity between the latter and President Roosevelt and the knowledge that Whitney's victory in a year preceding a presidential campaign would be used throughout the country as an alleged repudiation of the Roosevelt administration.

and Day state political half

The republican platform was unanimously adopted. All the present state officers headed by governor Curtis Guild Jr., was renominated by acclamation.

MAGILL MURDER TRIAL TO BE TAKEN UP NEXT MONDAY

Man And Wife Charged By Grand Jury Of Murdering "Pet" Magill, Will Be Tried At Decatur, Ill.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 5.—(Everything is ready for an early trial of the Fred Magill-Fay Graham murder case, which has been brought to Macon county on charge of venue from DeWitt county. The case is the second on the criminal docket, which will be the first to be taken up when court meets next Monday. The attorneys for the defense say the accused are ready to face the bar of justice and are confident that the result of the trial will be a complete vindication. On the other hand, prosecuting Attorney Miller of DeWitt county, who is in active charge of the prosecution, believes that he has a strong case, particularly against Magill.

Whatever the result may be, the trial is bound to attract as much attention as ever centered in a criminal case in this part of Illinois.

Fred Magill and his wife, formerly Fay Graham, come from two of the most prominent families in the state. Magill and his first wife had never been able to get along and it was common talk that he was paying attention to other women of Clinton, especially Miss Fay Graham, who had acted as his stenographer. On May 31 of this year Mrs. Magill, who was familiarly known as "Pet" Magill, was found dead at her home in Clinton, and it was at first supposed that she had committed suicide.

The circumstances surrounding the case were of a strange nature, but the authorities paid no attention to it until news came to Clinton that Fred Magill and Fay Graham had been married in Denver, and this but a little over four weeks after his first wife's death. It developed that a few days after the death of his wife Magill had disposed of his property, drew his money from his father's estate and with Miss Graham and his daughter, Margaret, aged 17, left Clinton. Miss Graham, who is the daughter of W. W. Graham, a well-known resident of Clinton, led her parents to believe that she was going to Chicago to secure work as a stenographer, and might also visit relatives in Kankakee.

When word was received that the couple had been married in Denver on July 5 an active investigation was started by the Clinton authorities and the result was that Magill and his bride were arrested in San Diego, Calif., on July 13, and brought back to Clinton and indicted by the grand jury. The charge was first degree murder. The investigation, it is said, showed that Mrs. Magill had been poisoned by chloroform.

When brought back to Clinton, Magill brought forth letters which he claimed had been written by his wife before her death in which she lauded him to the skies as the best of husbands, and in the final letters, which he claimed were written just before her death, she spoke in glowing terms of Fay Graham and even went so far as to advise him to marry her.

In contradiction to the statements of Magill the friends of the dead woman declare that she was of a cheerful disposition and a woman extremely unlikely to kill herself. On the night before her death who had been riding with her husband and appeared in a cheerful frame of mind. It was Magill who found her dead body next morning, when he said he had found the notes pinned to her nightdress. These notes the prosecution expects to prove forged. The coroner's inquest, at the behest of Magill, was conducted with secrecy, the coroner refusing to make any of the details public.

The Magill family is one of the wealthiest in Clinton, and prominent in the social and financial world. Fred Magill inherited $60,000 in 1892, but soon got away with it. Before he went west with Miss Graham he raised about $8,000 on a prospective legacy.

Since their return to Clinton Magill and his bride, with the seventeen-year-old daughter, have been staying at the home of W. W. Graham, and have appeared on the street but little. The daughter, Margaret, is stoutly maintained that her father is innocent and she is expected to be one of the most important witnesses in the case. The defense will be conducted by a staff of six prominent attorneys. The prosecution will also be well fortified at the trial, having engaged one of the most prominent attorneys in Illinois to assist the regular prosecuting attorney of DeWitt county.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indications of disease, the obvious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing.
Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispelled all the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so pure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps.
It almost always cures. It is strictly nonalcoholic, non-secreting, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle wrapper contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days treat on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young brats and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known construction. It takes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free

CURING IS NOW THE

PROBLEM OF GROWERS
Tobacco is All in the Sheds, Question Now Is As To Its Care.

The standing tobacco marked by the frost of a week ago has been mostly harvested, thus closing the harvest of the season. The chief concern now lies with the curing for which the weather of late has been far from suitable. With only one or two good curing days in three weeks leads growers to fear that the troubles of the crop are not yet over.

There are some indications of Indian summer weather which is due, and that may help out in curing the major part of the crop which is hardly yet started.

Drying of the new crop seems to be out of the question for some time to come, or until its character can be better determined. A few remnants of last year's crop have been left during the week. Martin Mason sold fifty at 16 and 50 and G. L. Colton 375 at 18c. Both to Dwight Loomis of Springfield, Mass. Trading among packers does not yet show much improvement. Samples of last year's packings are about ready for inspection but it is estimated that the large manufacturers are playing a waiting game, hoping for cheaper asking prices later on. A few out-of-town buyers have been in the state of late but we hear of no large transactions being closed.

Although the frost slipped from 15 to 20 per cent of the tobacco crop, there is a very small per cent now left scattered in the fields. The great bulk of what was standing when the frost came last week has been cut and hauled. The growers were determined to save something out of the week even though much of it was humane. Just what use can be made of this class of leaf can not yet be determined. In other seasons the chilled and slightly frozen tobacco has found a market to the extent of low prices, and it is possible it can yet be used by them. What packers most fear is that having been shodded, growers will not keep the frozen separate when their crop are stripped, thus forcing an additional caution, when buying and packing, and doubtless prevent much intelligent trading until the crop is cured. The frost came as a sort of climax to a late and unfavorable year filled with delays and unseasonable weather. Had the ordinary weather conditions prevailed during the maturing end of the season frosts coming so late in September.

SECOND GAME OF THE

SEASON PLAYED HERE
Brookhead and Janesville Highs Meet On the Gridiron This Afternoon.

What promises to be a most interesting game this afternoon at Athletic park. The contesting teams Janesville and Brookhead Highs are both opening the season. Janesville is playing its second game and is just rounding into form for the season's play. Brookhead has proven a stubborn opponent in times past and fast and snappy work is expected. During the past week Coach Haumerson has given the local players some fast hard work and it is thought the results will be shown in this afternoon play. The new rules give equal advantages to all teams and the plays will be watched with interest by old timers to whom they are an innovation.

Janesville lined up as follows: right end, Cunningham or Hendrick; right tackle, Church; right guard, Ken-
end, Underwood and Fitch; quarter back, Kozak; right half, Horley;

REVIEW ASSESSMENT

OF RACINE MONDAY
Seven Rock County Men Appointed by State Tax Commission Will Begin Two Months' Labors Next Week.

Supervisor of Assessments Frank

P. Starr, assisted by E. D. Cannon, DeLoit, E. Van Patton of Evansville, Bert Gage and O. D. Trace of Janesville, M. Kullman of Avon, and George Keith of Milton Junction, will commence Monday the review of the Racine county assessment of 1906. For some years past there has been a bitter contest between the cities and country in that locality, and it required over 80 ballots in a three days' debate to elect a chairman of the county board last year. The city of Racine has about three-fifths of the population but is not proportionally represented on the board. It has succeeded, however, according to the country element in controlling the appointment. The town of Calumet appealed to the state tax commission and the latter organization, which has had experts going over the real estate valuations in all sections of the state during the past summer, has named the Rock county men as a commission to conduct the review with special reference to the personal property. They will probably be engaged in the work at least two months. Mr. Starr will have general supervision of the work but will only devote a portion of his time to it, it being necessary for him to be here with the committee of equalization of the supervisors of Rock county which meets here on the 8th and also during the session of the board which opens on the 12th. With Judge Gibson of the tax commission he went to Racine last Monday to make an investigation of the record and plan the work. The Janesville men will personally direct the re-assessment of the manufacturers and merchants' property in Racine and Burlington.

LINK AND PIN

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—A gang of five workmen are now putting a new set of hoops on the water tank near the roundhouse. They will also repaint the tank before leaving here.

Looking Up Baggage: General Baggage Agent J. H. Curlick, of Milwaukee, was here yesterday to interview Night Operator Valentine about some lost baggage that passed through Waukegan this summer while Mr. Valentine was relieving the operator there.

ODD FELLOWS GOING

TO SPARTA TUESDAY
Delegation of Five Janesville Members of Order Will Attend Sessions of Grand Encampment.

Grand Exalted James A. Fathens,

William E. Apple and S. H. Knox who are to represent Rock River Encampment No. 2, and C. W. Schwartz and Ex-Mayor J. P. Hutchinson, members of important committees, will attend the sessions of the Grand Encampment of the Wisconsin L. O. O. F. which opens at Sparta next Tuesday and which will be in session three days.
The program is to include the usual features: a session of the Patriarchs Monday at nine o'clock Tuesday morning at meeting of the Grand Encampment at 2 p. m., the same day, the decoration of Chivalry at the camp house park at 8 p. m., a welcome by the mayor of the city and responses by prominent members of the order, a general program of music and addresses, followed by a military band. Wednesday morning there will be a competitive drill, a full dress parade, and degree work. Another will probably get the next session, though the Encampment is anxious to come to Janesville. The local members of the order, however, are seriously considering the proposition of extending an invitation to the Grand Lodge to meet here next June, which will mean making of arrangements to entertain 1,100 visitors, and would hardly be equal to the task of taking care of the Encampment during the following October.

Don't Neglect It

It is a serious mistake to neglect a weak heart. It is such a short step to chronic heart disease.
When you notice irregularity of action, occasionally short breath, palpitation, fluttering, pain in chest or difficulty in lying on left side, your heart needs help—a strengthening tonic. There is no better remedy than Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Its strengthening influence is felt almost at once.

I have read 10 bottles of Dr. Miles'

Heart Cure and can truthfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever used, and I have tried nearly everything that I know of. The doctor who attended me asked me what I was taking and I told him Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, he said it was not going to do me any good, but it did. I have not taken any for a year now, and while there is occasionally a slight symptom of the old trouble, it is not enough to make me trouble the rest of the medicine. It should get verse I would know what to do. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure as I did before.
I consider myself practically cured of my heart trouble.

S. H. DENHAM, Livingston, Texas.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that it will cure you. If it fails he will refund your money.

PANEL OF JURORS

FOR DUGAN TRIAL
Was Submitted By Sheriff L. U. Fisher This Morning—Trial Is To Begin on Tuesday Next.

Preliminary arrangements for the trial of Florence Dugan who has been held as a prisoner at the county jail since last April on the charge of assaulting George Schumacher with intent to kill, were taken this morning when Sheriff L. U. Fisher, on direction of the court and at the behest of the attorneys, filed a special list of 26 names of electors from the body of the county as candidates for jury duty. District Attorney J. L. Fisher asked for delay until two o'clock to enable him to make some inquiry regarding the parties named in the panel and at two o'clock he and Attorney T. S. Nolan, representing the defense, met and struck off eighteen of the thirty-six names submitted. The eleven who will be summoned to appear in court Tuesday morning, and their examination with reference to fitness to serve will probably take considerable time. Members of the ordinary sixteen jury which serve from time to time in this court receive but fifty cents a day for their services but the twelve from the body of the county trying the Dugan case will receive $2 a day, the same as circuit court jurors. The commencement of the trial is postponed until Tuesday owing to the fact that P. S. District Attorney W. G. Wheeler who is to assist the prosecution will be detained until Monday night at La Crosse, where he is attending the term of the United States court.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

A good-bye kiss is a little thing,

With your hand on the door to go,

But it takes the venom out of the sting

Of a thoughtless word or a cruel thing

That you made an hour ago.

A kiss of greeting is sweet and rare

After the toll of the day,

And it smooths the furrows plowed

By care,

The lines on the forehead you once

Called fair,

In the years that have blown away.

"This is a little thing to say, 'You are kind,

I love you, dear,' each night;

But it sends a thrill through your heart, I find,

For love is tender, love is blind,

As we climb life's rugged height.

"We starve each other for love's car-ous,

We take, but we do not give;

It seems so easy some soul to bless

But we do the love grudgingly less and less,

Till the bitter and hard to live."

This scrap of choice sentiment is from the pen of Margaret E. Sangster in the little magazine known as "Stellar Ray."

It has to do with the little things of life, many of which are considered so unimportant that they are ignored, or entirely overlooked.

The notion is quite common that sentiment, like religion, is better adapted to women and children, than to the sterner sex, and it is regarded as evidence of weakness if a man so far forgets himself as to admit that he has a heart which beats in sympathy with humanity. When the young man is married, and starts out on a honeymoon trip with the girl who has consented to be his companion, on the journey of life, the young couple command attention because so absorbed in each other that many prophecies are ignored.

The same trip, five years later, would attract no attention, for the husband would spend most of his time in the smoker, while his wife enjoyed the scenery from the window of a rear coach.

Just how long a honeymoon should last, has been the topic of much magazine discussion, by a class of writers who never made the trip, but who know as much about it as do the motherless mothers, who assume to be authority on bringing up children.

The length of the honeymoon joint is supposed to be regulated by the size of the bank account, and the "at home" after some future date, is expected to be the commencement of an era when sentiment and expressions of love are abandoned to make place for practical common sense in the every-day struggle for existence.

But the honeymoon joint, which approaches the ideal, is the commencement of the honeymoon journey which starts at the altar, where vows are pledged, and ends at the grave which claims the comrade who has been present at every stage of the way.

It is a little old truth, that men never know each other until closely associated together for years in business. The acquaintance of the street, and the closer acquaintance of the church and society, are but casual, as compared to the intimate knowledge which comes with close contact in partnership relations.

All the little traits of character, which lie beneath the surface, stand out in bold relief, and the two men, who may have been friends for years, discover that they have yet to become acquainted.

What is true of the business partnership is doubly true of the life partnership. It is the greatest lottery in which two people ever embark.

The knowledge they possess of each other, is of the most superficial sort.

The girl may be a choice parlor ornament and a belle in society. She may possess a handsome face and winning smile, combined with a temper which would drive a man to drink, and a record of inefficiency as a housekeeper which has caused the mother much anxiety.

The boy presents a fine appearance in tailor-made attire. He may be the soul of honor, and the best that ever happened, to the girl he proposes to marry, but to the boys who know him, and to the home which shelters him, his weaknesses are revealed.

The girl who is to share his fortunes is destined to become better acquainted with him than either father or mother or friends, because she takes him for better or worse, at a period when responsibilities are to be assumed and carried.

They are both investors in a lottery ticket, and frequently discover that they have drawn a blank. This is the chance of marriage where the honeymoon ends in thirty days, and a life of endurance and disappointment begins. The popular name for this part of partnership is incompatibility and it covers a multitude of shortcomings in many homes.

But there are other homes, and they are largely in the majority, where the altar fires, kindled when the home was established, have been kept bright, by loving hearts, through all the years of testing experience, down to the time when the honeymoon is lived over again, in the absence of the children, who have come and gone.

There may not be much by way of demonstration, but these homes are rich in appreciation and mutual understanding. They endured the test of the strain, which comes to every home during the earlier years of conflict, and the passing of every decade cemented the bond and perfected the union. "Two hearts that beat as one," may apply to the boy and girl when the home is established, but its significance is never realized until the passing years develop it.

A gentleman said, as he turned away from the open grave which contained all that was mortal of the wife who had been his companion for 25 years, "We always understood each other, and during all the years of our married life, not a cross word ever crossed her lips."

That expresses the secret of happy home life, mutual understanding and control of that unruly member called the tongue.

If the administration's policy is adopted, the attorneys general of the several states, will find their work and authority simplified.

President Van Hise of the state university is to be congratulated for ordering the "class rush" to be abolished.

The President favors a navy that will command the respect of the world. He compliments the nation for being at peace with all mankind and propose to retain respect by being prepared for any emergency.

PRESS COMMENT.

How the "Curses" Worked

Milwaukee News: When Mr. La

Follette expressed the wish that Stuyvesant Fish could be "hung up by the thumbs," Mr. Harriman must have been listening.

Tough On the Old Cows.

Nashville American: The Cuban rumors and the bandoleros have "exchanged shots." This means that probably somebody's cow over in the next barrio has been wounded.

Even He Doesn't Escape Growlers.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Perhaps that

English critic who defines Mark

Twain's humor as "flippant imperiousness" feels sore, as a linen descendant, about Mark's irreverence over the grave of Adam.

The New Challenger, "Olson."

Shelby Journal: The Royal

Swedish Yacht club proposes to build a yacht and try for the America's cup.

The boat will be named either "Olon"

Olson" or "Yon Yonson," after two distinguished Swedish-American citizens.

Nice Now, Thanks to Hague.

Marquette Eagle Star: The Milwa-waukee Free Press and the Sentinel are now having a nice little "slap you on the wrist" time. The taps are gentle and far different than during the strenuous times of years ago. The Hague Tribunal was not without some good effect.

Jumpers Swollen With Victory.

Green Bay Gazette: The Holy Jumps will protect the case of Olga Landell in which they lost out on the charge of kidnapping. Flashed by their recent victory over the Waukeshu authorities, in the matter of holding street services, the jumpers may put their necks in the way of a falling weight.

Fairness To Oklahoma, Gentlemen.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: A southern paper claims that two democratic senators from Oklahoma will be enough to prevent the ratification of treaties. Perhaps the Oklahoma senators and other democrats in that body will consider a treaty on its merits and not as an occasion for bitter partisan obduracy.

Is this Dr. Richards?
Yes, Well! I want to come right down to your office.
I'm suffering terribly with one of my teeth.
All right. I'll be there in a few minutes.
The patient and the Dr. meet shortly as per the above conversation over the phone and if you were present it wouldn't be long before you would hear a sigh of relief and the patient would say something like this:
"Why, what did you do?" Dr. R.
"The pain is all gone."
"I haven't had such a relief from agony in the past 5 hours."
"The Dr. knows what to do and how to do it, and in a way that makes you feel like you had suddenly burst out of that sulphurous place we read about into a land of bliss."
"He saves you Pain."
"He saves you teeth."
"He saves you Money."

CHECK FOR $20
WAS A FORGERY

Made Out To Frank Brown and Purporting to Have Been Signed by Fred Bookle—Herman Duggs Caught It

At Herman Duggs' establishment last evening a man giving his name as Frank Brown cashed a check for $20 on the First National bank, written in lead pencil and purporting to have been attested by Fred Bookle of the town of Harmony. In his conversation "Brown" mentioned the names of farmers living in the locality and his address and general appearance caused no suspicion. This morning, however, the bank refused to cash the check for Mr. Duggs, assuring him that it was Mr. Bookle's custom to have the bank make out the body of all his checks and to merely affix his signature, and that the signature in this instance was a perfectly palpable forgery. Only a meager description of the man could be furnished the police.

IMPROVEMENTS TO
BE MADE AT BRESEE
MONUMENTS SHOPS

Geo. Brosco, the monument dealer, will make a number of improvements at his shops, 162 West Milwaukee street. He will put a new floor at his show rooms and install many modern facilities. Work will commence in a few weeks. On account of his fast growing business he needs more room.
Orders for beautiful monuments are coming in daily from all parts of southern Wisconsin. Mr. Brosco has now more orders than he can fill, and this morning he sent east for two more expert cutters. Mr. Brosco has some very fine monuments in stock at his Milwaukee street show rooms which he will sell for unheard of prices. These monuments must be sold so as to make room for ordered stock. People thinking of buying monuments will find some very choice jobs at $25.00 and up.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES
MEETING MONDAY NEXT

The Associated Charities will meet Monday afternoon at three o'clock at Helmstedt's drug store. This is the first meeting of the season and the winter's work will be outlined. The officers hope that every member will be present, as they wish to make provision for the more extensive work which they hope to do the coming winter.
Plans for further improvement of charity work are under consideration, and they wish a full attendance for the success of the same.

CITY, VILLAGE, AND TOWN OFFICERS TO PAY CROW BOUNTIES

Head-Hunters Will Not Hereafter Be Compelled to Journey to County Seat with Their Spoils.

According to the new law which has just gone into effect the burden of examining and paying for crows' heads and other trophies of the chase for which a bounty is offered, is lifted from the county clerk and treasurer, and the city, village, and town clerks are directed to make the settlements. Reports are to be made by these officers to the county board once a year and the latter will direct the clerk to draw orders on the treasurer for the amounts due to the various officers of the county divisions.

Missouri State Fair.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 5.—The Missouri state fair opened today under conditions that promise well for a successful exhibition. In addition to the usual displays of agricultural, horticultural and manufactured products, mi-nchinery, etc., the fair this year is especially notable for the exhibits in the departments devoted to livestock and purebred horses. Air ship contests and numerous other popular attractions are offered for the coming week.

Annual Meeting of Y. M. C. A. Boys To Be Held Here Day After Thanksgiving.

W. H. Wones, State Secretary for boys' work of the Young Men's Christian Association, is in Janesville today making preliminary arrangements for the fifth State Boys' Conference to be held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 29th, to December 1st.

About one hundred and fifty older boys—fourteen to eighteen years of age—will be in attendance as delegates from the different Boys Departments of the state. They will be accompanied by their parents and other home while here. Some men president in church and Y. M. C. A. work throughout the state and country will appear as speakers. The sessions will be held in the Association building and are open to the public, a special invitation being extended for the evening meetings.

TOWER WISHES TO RETIRE.

Ambassador to Germany Wants to Return Next Spring.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—Ambassador Tower has written President Roosevelt asking that he be permitted to retire from the diplomatic service next spring.

Mr. Tower's reasons are understood to be that, having been abroad for nearly 11 years, he desires again to live in his own country in order to have a home there for his sons, who are now nearly ready to go to Harvard college, and to give his personal attention to his extensive financial, mining and railroad interests that have been left to the supervision of others during his long absence.

Three Killed in Mine Explosion.
Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 5.—In a gas explosion of mine No. 7 of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, one mile from Pratt City, Friday morning three men were killed and two others fatally hurt.

Free Theater Refreshments.

Manager Musgrove has commenced supplying patrons of the circle and front stalls of the Lyceum (Sydney) with refreshments free of charge.
Another manager is said to be thinking of following his lead. It seems to be an unwise thing to begin; if managers don't look out it'll become as big a curse to them as counter bunches to publicans.—Sydney Bulletin.

Windy Day in Kansas.

An Emporia woman, who is by no means a heavy weight, was seen going about the neighborhood on a recent windy day carrying a flat iron in each hand. Although she didn't have the iron labeled "ballast," no one asked any questions.—Emporia Gazette.

Millionaires in Japan.

Japan has very few millionaires and practically no multi-millionaires.

"STATE BANKS"

In Wisconsin are safer than National Banks" is a statement made by a former deputy state bank examiner of Wisconsin. His reason for this statement is that more time and care are given to the examination of state banks. The state bank examiners are paid salaries, while the national bank examiners get so much for each examination, so the latter naturally try to get through their work as quickly as possible, while the state examiners take all the time needed for a thorough examination. The ex-puty examiner also states, "The Wisconsin banking laws, in my opinion, are the best of any state in the union."

We are a Wisconsin state bank and we are confident that with our ample resources and superior facilities we can offer you safe and convenient banking accommodations.

We invite you to call.

Average Life of Ships.
The average life of an American ship is only 18 years, while that of a British vessel is 26 years. The Scandinavian average is the best. It is 30 years.

THE FIRST BANKER merely furnished a safe place to leave money and other valuables. The banking business has developed, has taken new forms, and offers many new accommodations and services, but the first cause for a bank is still the main thing the public requires—a safe place for its money. We furnish that. We lend money, pro-

ROOT FEASTED BY AMERICAN COLONY

DANQUET AT THE COUNTRY CLUB OF MEXICO CITY.

ADVICE TO THE EXILES

Secretary Tells Them to Be Good American Citizens, but Also Loyal Mexicans—Drooles III-Feel-Ing Toward Foreigners.

Mexico City, Oct. 5.—"Americans in Mexico should be good, loyal and true Mexican citizens," was the gist of Secretary Root's speech Friday at the banquet given him by the American colony of this city at the Country club.

The banquet was attended by 100 prominent members of the colony and a dozen high Mexican officials, including Foreign Minister Mariscal and Mid. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., son of the president.

Secretary Root toasted President Diaz as the man who more than all others had given opportunities for American enterprise in Mexico. Gov. Landa Benetton, of the federal district, replied in behalf of his president. Secretary Root's health was proposed by Gen. Frisbie and Ambassador Thompson.

Admonitions to American Colony.

In his reply, Secretary Root said in part: "We are a long way from the border, but I feel very much at home. I am delighted at the evidences of the prosperity of the American colony of Mexico City. It seems that separation from your native land has given you greater reverence for the flag, and at the risk of being accused of preaching, I will give you the following advice: Be always good Americans, but at the same time good, loyal and true Mexicans. It is wrong to hate foreigners. That feeling is fast disappearing in the United States and I trust that it will be your effort to make it disappear also in Mexico, because ill-feeling toward foreigners, more than any other thing, stands today in the way of American trade."

Mr. Root's remarks were received with unbounded enthusiasm.

Reception at Ambassador's.

Ambassador Thompson gave a reception Friday evening at the embassy in honor of the secretary. All the guests were presented to Secretary Root by the ambassador, Mrs. and Miss Root were among those present.

There is considerable speculation here regarding the arrival of Francis B. Loomis, former first assistant secretary of state. Mr. Loomis visited Mr. Root soon after reaching Mexico City, but the object of his visit is not known.

The Prohibition Theory on Beers

Has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. The great scientists of all Nations after careful analysis declare that beer brewed from pure barley malt and hops contains only about 3/4 per cent of alcohol or just enough to mildly stimulate the body and promote healthy digestion. Dr. Bauer, the German analyst (whose fame is international) says "Beer has a number of pleasant and valuable qualities. No other beverage contains such a combination of useful properties. The water of it quenches the thirst, the carbonic acid refreshes, the extracts are nutritious, the alcohol furthers digestion, the mineral salts build up the bones and extracts of hops act as a tonic."

Dr. Bauer's statement here given exactly describes the qualities of

CHAPTER XVII.

FOR the next day or two Paul was kept closely to work in the office reading a number of tales which were awaiting his judgment. After hours he several times tried to see Lily Hurd, but was unable to meet him. He left a note at the Scotland Yard office, asking if Hurd had received his communication regarding Mrs. Krill, and if so, what he proposed to do concerning it. Hurd did not reply to this note, and Paul was growing puzzled over the silence of the detective. At length the answer came, not in writing, but in the person of Hurd himself, who called on Tuesday.

"The young man had just finished his frugal meal and was sitting down to an evening's work when there came a knock to the door. Hurd, dressed in his usual brown suit, presented himself, looking cool and composed. But he was more excited than one would imagine, as Paul saw from the expression of his eyes. The detective accepted a cup of coffee and lighted his pipe. Then he sat down in the armchair on the opposite side of the fireplace and prepared to talk. Paul heaped on curls with a lavish hand, little as he could afford this extravagance, as the night was cold and he guessed that Hurd had much to say. So, on the whole, they had a very comfortable and interesting conversation.

"I suppose you are pleased to see me," asked Hurd, putting meditatively at his elbow.

Paul nodded. "Very glad," he answered, "that is, if you have done anything about Mrs. Krill."

"Well," drawled the detective, smiling, "I have been investigating that murder case."

"Lady Rachel Sandals?" said Paul eagerly. "Is it really murder?"

"I think so, though some folks think it suicide. Curious you should have stumbled across that young fellow, went on Hurd musingly, "and more curious still that he should have been in the room with Mrs. Krill without recollecting the name. There was a great fuss made about it at the time."

"Oh, I can understand Lord George," said Hurd promptly. "The murder, if it is one, took place before he was born, and as there seems to have been some scandal in the matter, the family hushed it up. This young fellow probably gathered scraps of information from old servants, but from what he said to me in the cab I think he knows very little."

"Quite enough to put me on the track of Lord George's reason for leaving Christchurch," said Paul.

"Is that the reason?"

"Yes. Twenty-one years ago he left Christchurch, at the very time Lady Rachel was murdered in his public house. Then he disappeared for a time and turned up a year later in Gwynne street, with a young wife whom he had married in the meantime."

"Sybil's mother?"

"Exactly. And Mrs. Norman was born a year later. She's nearly twenty-one, isn't she?"

"Yes. She will be twenty-one in three months."

Hurd nodded gravely. "The time corresponds," said he. "As the crime was committed twenty-three years back and Lord George is only twenty, I can understand how he knows so little about it. But didn't he connect Mrs. Krill with the man who died in Gwynne street?"

"No. She explained that. The name of Krill appeared only a few times in the papers and was principally set forth with the portrait, in the handbills. I shouldn't think Lord George was the kind of young man to bother about handbills."

"All the same, he might have heard talk at his club. Every one isn't so stupid."

"No; but, at all events, he did not seem to connect Mrs. Krill with the dead man, and even with regard to the death of his aunt, he fancied she might not be the same woman."

"What an ass he must be!" said Hurd contemptuously.

"I don't think he has much brain," confessed Paul, shrugging his shoulders. "But he asked me if I thought Mrs. Krill was the same as the lady who was the Red Pig, and I decided that she was. I don't like telling lies, but in this case I hope the departure from truth will be pardoned."

"You did very right," said the detective. "The clever people know about these matters the better, especially a chatterbox like this young fellow."

"Do you know him?"

"Yes, under the name of the Count de la Tour. But I know of him in no other way, which I'll reveal later. He is still fleeing him."

"He is. But Lord George seems to be growing suspicious of him," said Paul, relating the conversation he had with the young man.

Hurd granted. "I'm sorry," he said. "I want to catch him redhanded, and if Lord George grows too clever I may not be able to do so."

"Well," said Paul, rather impatiently, "never mind about that fellow just now, but tell me what you have discovered."

"Oh, a lot of interesting things. When I got your letter of course I at once connected the opal serpent with Aaron Norman and his change of name with the murder. I knew that Norman came to Gwynne street over twenty years ago—that came out in the evidence connected with his death. Therefore, putting two and two together, I searched in the newspapers of that period and found what I wanted."

"A report of the case?"

"Precisely. And after that I hunted up the records at Scotland Yard for further details that were not made public. So I got the whole story together, and I am pretty certain that Aaron Norman, or as he then was, Lemuel Krill, murdered Lady Rachel for the sake of that precious brooch."

"Ah," said Paul, drawing a breath. "Now I understand why he faded when he saw it again. No wonder, considering it was connected in his mind with the death of Lady Rachel."

"Quite so. And no wonder the man kept looking over his shoulder in the expectation of being tapped on the shoulder by a policeman. I don't wonder also that he looked up the house and kept his eye on the ground and went to church secretly to pray. What a life he must have led. Upon my soul, had as the man was, I'm sorry for him."

"So am I," said Paul. "And, after all, he is Sybil's father."

"Poor girl, to have a murderer for a father!"

Hurd turned pale. "I love Sybil for herself," he said with an effort, "and if her father had committed twenty murders I would not let her go. But she must never know."

"No," said Paul, stretching his hand across and giving Paul a friendly grip, "and I know you'll stick to her. It wouldn't be fair to blame the girl for what her father did before she was born."

"We must keep everything from her, Hurd. I'll marry her and take her abroad sooner than she should learn of this previous murder. But how did it happen?"

"I'll tell you in a few minutes," Hurd rose and began to pace the narrow limits of the attic. "By the way, do you know that Norman was a secret drinker of brandy?"

Paul nodded, and told the detective what he had learned from Mrs. Krill. Hurd was much struck with the intelligence. "I see," said he; "what Mrs. Krill says is quite true. Drink does change the ordinary nature into the opposite. Krill sober was a timid rabbit; Krill drunk was a murderer and a thief. Good Lord, and how he drank!"

"How do you know?"

"Well," confessed Hurd, nursing his chin. "Paul and I went to search the Gwynne street house to find if possible the story alluded to in the scrap of paper Deborah Jink found. We couldn't drop across anything of that sort, but in Norman's bedroom, which nobody ever entered, we found brandy bottles by the score—under the bed, ranged along the walls, filling cupboards, stowed away in boxes. I had the curiosity to count them. There we found run up to five, and Lord knows how many more he must have got rid of when he found the bottles crowding him inconveniently."

"I expect he got drunk every night," said Paul, thinking. "When he looked up Sybil and Deborah in the upper room I can understand now why he did so—he could go to the cellar and take possession of the shop key left on the nail by Bart. Then, free from all intrusion, he could drink till reeling. Not that I think he ever did reel," went on Hurd, thoughtful of what Mrs. Krill had said; "he could stand a lot, and I expect the brandy only converted him into a demon."

"And a clever business man," said Hurd. "You know Aaron Norman was ARRESTED, HE KILLS HIMSELF.

Davenport Man, Accused of Opening Registered Mail, Commits Suicide.

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 5.—James H. Farrand, superintendent of delivery in the Davenport post office, was arrested Friday morning, charged with opening registered mail. Soon after he committed suicide.

Threats from mail at the post office had puzzled the authorities for several years. Detectives had been working on the case for a month, and claim to have caught Farrand with decoy letters, and to have had a plain case against him. Farrand was bound over to the federal grand jury. He gave bail and was found dead in bed later, having suffocated himself with chloroform.

"Held-Up" Play Is Fatal.

Oxford, Pa., Oct. 5.—Edward Kauffman, aged nine years, was shot and instantly killed at Nottingham, near here, Friday by his brother, Harry. The older boy, recently won a revolver at the county fair. Armed with the weapon he went to meet his brother and pretending to be a highwayman, he held the little fellow up at the point of the pistol. The weapon was discharged and the bullet penetrated young Kauffman's brain. The brother was exonerated from blame at the inquest.

Fleeing Fame.

Cyrus, the conqueror, thought for a little time that he was making a great thing out of this world. Yet before he came to his grave he wrote this pitiful epitaph for his monument: "I am Cyrus. I occupied the Persian empire. I was king over Asia. Heed me not this monument." But the world in after years plowed up his sepulchre.

Beware of the Yankees.

HADLEY AFTER GOULD LINES Farm and City Property For Sale.

WILL ASK JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT IN QUO WARRANTO SUIT. Concerns in Alleged Merger Have Failed to Make Answer in Missouri Court.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 5.—Attorney General Hadley announced Friday that next Tuesday, when the supreme court meets, he will file a motion for judgment by default against the Missouri Pacific railroad, the Washburn railroad, the Iron Mountain railroad, the Pacific Express company and the American Refrigerator Transit company, for failure to answer the quo warranto proceedings brought by him to dissolve the merger and joint ownership of these properties.

Last July the supreme court made an order giving the Gould lines and companies until September 1 to answer the attorney general. The time later was extended to September 22, but up to date no answer has been filed.

Mr. Hadley Friday filed in the supreme court a return in the quo warranto proceedings against the Missouri Pacific railroad, and the Western Coal and Mining company, the Atch Mill Coal Mining company and the Kansas Missouri Elevator company of Kansas City, in which he alleges the railroad's ownership of the other companies named was not simply for the purpose of supplying itself with fuel, but to engage in the business of selling coal to the general public in violation of the law and the tenor of the railroad's charter.

The case has been set for hearing before the supreme court on Banc October 22.

NEW JERSEY HEIRESS MISSING.

Helen Maloney Believed to Have Eloped with Londoner.

New York, Oct. 5.—Miss Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney, the millionaire Standard Oil man, is missing from her home at Spring Lake, N. J., and her parents hastened to this city Friday to search for her. Miss Maloney on her twenty-first birthday recently received a gift of $50,000. Tuesday, with a maid, she came here to do some shopping. She became separated from her maid and her subsequent whereabouts are not known to her family.

Mrs. Maloney, however, believes her daughter well and happy and now the wife of Samuel Clarkson, a wealthy Londoner. Mr. Clarkson had recently been a guest at the Maloney home. Mrs. Maloney expressed herself at a loss to understand why the two had disappeared, because, she declared, there was no objection to their marriage, so far as the girl's parents were concerned.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy—

Riding, Ga. August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen—
In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians said it was dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I waited on a little more milk, soda, biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I packed up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated dyspeptic wreck with great anxiety, and that Almanac happened to be my life savior. I bought a fifty-cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE, and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I will use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

Play you live long and prosper.
Yours very truly,
J. P. CORNELL.
